The data

The `nycflights13` package contains information about all flights that departed from NYC (e.g. EWR, JFK and LGA) in 2013. The main data is in the `flights` data frame, but there are additional data sets which could be used to help understand what causes delay. These datasets are...

- `planes`: construction information about each plane
- `airports`: airport names and locations
- `airlines`: translation between two letter carrier codes and names
